PERMISSION TO PUBLISH

AHRI would like to publicise your achievement in the following ways:

1. By listing your name and post-nominal on the AHRI website
2. By profiling your Certified Practitioner status in AHRI media (for example, HRMonthly magazine)
3. By providing your contact details to the publisher or our media for potential interviews, quotes, testimonials or articles to be published about your certification journey.

Please tick this box if you do not want to have your name published

DECLARATION OF POTENTIAL IMPEDIMENTS

The preamble to the AHRI Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct requires members to agree to be bound by the standards of the code and include it as part of their working habits within their organisations, with clients, colleagues and the community.

The code can be accessed on the AHRI website as By-Law 1: ahri.com.au/about-us/governance/

The code also expresses the community and professional expectations that are incumbent on becoming an AHRI Certified Practitioner (a CPHR or FCPHR). Accordingly, candidates for certification are required at the point of submitting an application to the National Certification Council (NCC) to disclose any matters that may be an impediment to the application.

Impediments may relate to questions of honesty or integrity that have resulted in a formal complaint with respect to the candidate's professional practice, and may involve allegations of professional incompetence, misconduct or unlawfulness.

The disclosure of a potential impediment should include a detailed declaration relating to the present status of the matter; e.g. substantiated or unsubstantiated, resolved or unresolved, pending a decision.

Note 1: Disclosure of a potential impediment by the candidate will enable the NCC to assess the status of the matter; it will not in itself prevent a candidate's successful certification.

Note 2: A statement by the candidate of "nothing to declare" on this matter will not preclude the NCC from conducting its own due diligence.

I have read and understood the Declaration of Potential Impediments statement above

As a consequence:

I have nothing to declare

I declare the following potential impediment(s)

I acknowledge that:

- Attaining and maintaining the status of Certified Practitioner is contingent on continuous AHRI professional membership. Membership of AHRI ensures that I maintain currency of knowledge via AHRI's Continuing Professional Development (CPD) requirements as per the Professional Recognition Framework ahri.com.au/about-us/governance/
